Moderate track

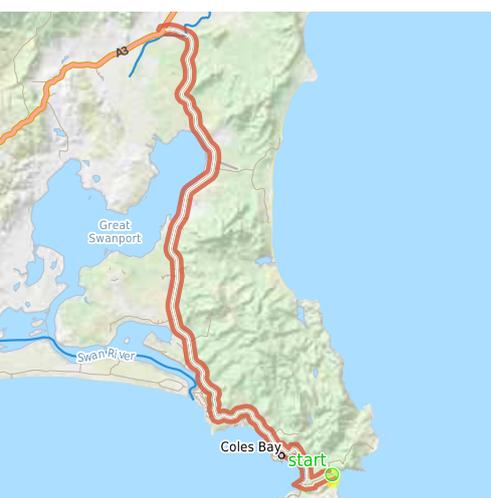

Starting from a carpark just off Cape Tourville Road, Freycinet National Park, this walk leads to Sleepy Bay and back via the Sleepy Bay Track. From the carpark, gently graded steps lead to the rocky shoreline of Sleepy Bay which, despite its name, often experiences wild and rough seas. From the Sleepy Bay Lookout you can enjoy views over the beautiful rocky bay with its turquoise waters and orange lichen-encrusted rocks. You can extend this short walk by following the track down to Little Gravelly Beach, a delightful cove with crystal clear water and large reddish boulders. While the track is easy to follow, it is quite steep, rough underfoot in places and passes close to some high cliff tops. This is a short, mildly strenuous walk, not recommended for people with limited mobility as there are some steep steps down to the beach. Let us begin by acknowledging the Traditional Custodians of the land on which we travel today, and pay our respects to their Elders past and present.

Sleepy Bay Track

0.5

0 100 200 m

Getting started: From the car park just off Cape Tourville Road, Freycinet(1.5km east of intersection with Freycinet Drive), follow the dirt track gently downhill into the woodland and towards the ocean, moving directly away from the road. After about 90 metres of going straight, turn right and move parallel to the shoreline following the dirt path, keeping the bay to your left.

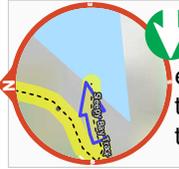

Start.

Find the car park at the start.

After another 200 m come to the "Sleepy Bay Lookout".

Continue another 310 m to find the end. Then turn around here and retrace the main route for 530 m to get back to the start.
